Sangamon County Poor Farm

Posted on February 22, 2015 by editor

Sangamon County first created a home to care for the poor, feeble, disabled and mentally ill in 1851, four years after famed social reformer Dorothea Dix wrote a scathing commentary about the county's practice of keeping paupers and the insane in the Sangamon County Jail. (Prior to 1844 or '45, according to Dix's letter, the county imposed a year's indenture on anyone found to be a pauper; by the time she wrote in 1847, however, officials had decided it was cheaper to house them in the jail.)

In 1851, the county board bought a property known as "Two Mile House," a 115-acre site that included a former tavern. It was named because it was about two miles north of the city proper.

That original poor farm was turned over to the Sangamon County Agricultural and Mechanical Association in 1869 for use as a county fairgrounds. It now is part of the Illinois State Fairgrounds.

To replace that property, the county paid $20,000 for 380 acres of land 1.5 miles east of Buffalo as the site for the new farm. About 200 acres were immediately sold off. Later descriptions of the farm give varying sizes for the property, from 177 to 188 acres.

Whatever its extent, the land had potential. The Illinois State Journal, in a Sept. 23, 1870, article, described the property as "one of the most elegant farms in the county … high, rolling prairie in a high state of cultivation, through which runs a stream of never-failing water."

Officials sought bids to build a poor house on the property in July 1870. A two-story, 44-room building was built to house 100 people, men in the east wing and women in the west, with a large hall, dining room, sitting rooms and medical areas in the middle, along with offices and staff quarters.

"Well ventilated cells for insane persons" originally were planned for the end of each first-floor wing; ultimately, however the cells – apparently with far less ventilation — were installed in the basement. The building opened, ahead of schedule, that December.

Despite the expense and obvious good intentions of county officials, conditions at the poor farm turned grim in less than two years. The county board fired the farm's operators, identified as "the Crenshaw brothers," in October 1872, following a report on conditions at the farm by the county's physician, Dr. L. Gillett. Among his findings:

The food placed on the table most of the time for the paupers is not good, healthy food. Sometimes the dinners are good enough, both as to quality and quantity … and sometimes it is not fit for any one to eat.

The miserable compound of rye and cheap molasses furnished for breakfast as a substitute for coffee is sickening to drink, and produces debility and consequent disease. The invariable supper for the four months that I have been in attendance has been mush and sour milk. Sometimes as an especial favor, the sour milk has been changed to butter milk. …

As for the beds some of them are too filthy for any one to sleep in, bugs without number have taken possession of them, and can be seen by any one who will take the trouble to look; the straw in some of the beds is rather "thin." …

John Coy is a man who has been an inmate of the poor house for several years, and is paralyzed so that he cannot take care of himself. I examined him yesterday and find that his head is one mass of vermin. I am informed by some of the paupers that they are never furnished any soap for washing themselves with.

The slops from the kitchen are thrown on the ground within six feet of the well that supplies water to the pauper department. The privies are filthy beyond description and a disgrace to any public charity.

Gillett's report set a pattern for the farm. The institution was created to be self-supporting – it raised its own livestock, which were fed on the farm's own hay and grain, and operated its own dairy, bakery, kitchen garden and icehouse. Capable residents did some of the work, but the county also hired farmhands and housekeepers.

However, superintendents were usually political appointees, and the quality of care for residents depended greatly on the superintendent's diligence and how much attention the county board of supervisors and public paid to the farm. County board members made annual inspections, but those were often social outings – picnics featuring barrels of lemonade and sleight-of-hand performances – more than serious examinations of the facility.

When outsiders dropped in unexpectedly, however, the results too often were like those reported by a state inspector in March 1912:

The place needs a general overhauling, an application of soap and water, the infusion of fresh air and sunshine, and the introduction of modern ideas in the care of the classes which inhabit such institutions.

The bedding is dirty, old rubbish stored under many of the straw mattresses. Window panes which have been broken have been replaced with old boards. Throughout the building there are numerous leakages in the pipes. Although the almshouse is far from fireproof, the building is at present unprotected, as the hose is not connected with running water.

The number of poor farm residents was frequently above the design capacity of 100 during the 74 years the farm operated – usually about 150 people lived there, and at times the population approached 200. The vast majority were men. Most residents were old and incapacitated in some way.

Poor farm residents

The only known remaining records of poor farm admissions are three volumes covering most of the years between 1875 and 1905. The records are both limited and heartbreaking.

The records reflect the poor farm's practice of compiling full lists of residents every three months. People admitted between those counts were added as they arrived. The lists were columnar. From left to right, a listing would show the person's date of admission; his or her name (if he or she was Black, there was a note "COL", meaning "colored"); the person's age; the reason he or she was at the farm; and their country of birth.

The last two columns reported under whose authority the resident was committed to the farm and, if they left, the date they did so. However, there are entries in those last two columns only for people admitted or discharged between the three-month resident counts.

Most of the admissions were done by a county official who had the title "overseer of the poor" – a patronage office that, for instance, was held by Samuel C. Parker (1846-1918) in 1886. His qualifications to oversee the poor? He was a decorator; Parker's obituary says he was responsible for decorating the interior of the Statehouse.

Each township also had an overseer of the poor, and county judges could commit people to the poor farm as well.

Some of those admitted, the records show, didn't stay at the farm very long – relatives, friends, or employers might step forward when someone they knew was sent to the farm.

If someone wasn't released quickly, however, he or she was likely to spend months or even years as poor farm residents. And, of course, since illness was often what forced someone to enter the poor house in the first place, the records list a fair number of deaths there — as in the case of 26-year R.F. Fairburn, who, according to the page above, died of "jonders" (jaundice) only two weeks after he entered the poor farm.

The column showing the reason a resident was admitted is the most melancholy. Some common reasons: "destitute;" "insane;" "rheumatism," "old & infirm." Saddest of all, perhaps, was a man who was at the farm for several years. He couldn't hear or speak, he was Black, and whatever he was named at birth, no one knew it. So the Dec. 1, 1886 quarterly census identifies him as "N——, Dum (col.)", age 53. (Expurgation by SangamonLink)

Columbus Wilson

The best-known resident of the poor farm was the one who lived there longest: Columbus Wilson, known as "Pigeon." Wilson, thought to have been born into slavery in Virginia in the 1850s or early 1860s, probably entered the poor farm in 1887. (For the first few years of his residency, farm records identify him as "Calhoon" Wilson. However, closer examination of the incomplete records, along with contemporary newspaper stories, make it clear that Calhoon and Columbus Wilson were the same person.)

Wilson was still at the poor farm when it closed in 1944. He did odd jobs around the facility, especially digging postholes, for most of that time. Friendly and cheerful, Wilson was well-known in the village of Buffalo, which he visited frequently.

Wilson's particular delusion was that he was extremely wealthy, that he owned the poor farm itself and had millions of dollars in bank accounts and government bonds, funds he regularly tried to access by writing checks. Illinois State Journal and Register columnist A.L. Bowen wrote about Wilson shortly before the farm's closure.

From his pockets he brings a wad of checks for untold amounts. He asked me to cash the smallest one. "It's only $75,000," he assured me. For all this wealth in his grasp, the only coin of the realm he could produce from his immense pockets was a thin dime. …

With true pride of ownership of what to him is a palace, "Pigeon" took me about, showing me into all the rooms and explaining them to me. He was particularly solicitous that I see where he sleeps in a huge room on the basement level with a door opening out to the south.

When I parted from him, I could not help feeling that mental aberration, after all, is not wholly a misfortune. It must be something to live continuously in a world of pleasant fantasies.

The poor farm eventually became an anachronism, and with the number of residents dropping – only 58 people remained in the home by 1944 – the county board closed the facility and sold the property. Residents were transferred to boarding homes or, in the case of the mentally ill, to state institutions. (Pigeon Wilson moved to the Jacksonville State Hospital; it could not immediately be determined when or where he died.)

The farm's buildings were demolished over the years – the last, an unroofed brick shell, sometime after 2015. By 2024, the only remnant of the farm was a tiny, neglected cemetery located on Fleck Road, a barely drivable gravel path that runs south from Old U.S. 36 east of Buffalo. Except for people who died between 1875 and 1905, no one knows who's buried there. The only grave markers are three-inch by three-inch stones, buried in weeds and fallen trees, with numbers chiseled into them. No cemetery records remain, so there's no way to tell who lies in which grave.

Springfield public health expert Dr. George T. Palmer visited the poor farm in 1912 or early 1913 to write an article for The Survey, a sociology magazine. He found physical conditions at the poor farm to be relatively good. But the concept was still a hopeless one.

This, seemingly, was no place to come for the ugly story of destitution — for the revolting facts which force us, almost against our wills, to paint our picture in glaring yellow. But the destitution was there. You could see it in the expression, the gait and the posture of the inmates; you could smell it in the unmistakable smell of poverty and you could feel it in the indefinable something which grips you and oppresses you in an institution of this kind.

It was a poorhouse and nothing but a poorhouse—a good poorhouse, if there is such a thing, but a poorhouse none the less. Like thousands of similar institutions, it stood ready to receive the individual when he strikes the very bottom of the toboggan slide of life, to house him and to feed him humanely enough, but with the saving of dimes and nickels regarded as the cardinal virtue of efficient management. … Like thousands of others, it was one of those places where we receive the unfortunate; where we label him a pauper; where we tolerate his presence until death reduces the county expense or until he goes out into the world again not a whit better off, physically, mentally or morally, on account of his association with us.

In his profile of the Sangamon County Poor Farm before its closure, A.L. Bowen – who knew his subject; he had been director of the state Department of Public Welfare during the Great Depression – likewise summed up the institution as a failure.

(I)t was founded on the theory on which all poorhouses have been founded, the paupers living within would do the work. They would farm the lands and raise the stock and make it self-supporting.

But paupers are paupers either because they cannot or will not work. Poorhouses have been failures and, in most instances, inhumane instruments of misguided charity. Sangamon's poorhouse has been no exception to the general rule; in fact, it has been an outstanding monument to the folly of an obvious impossibility.

Note: This entry was expanded in 2024 to include more information about residents of the poor farm.

More information: Bowen's articles of Sept. 27 and 28, 1944, are available on newspaper databases and in the vertical file at Lincoln Library's Sangamon Valley Collection. A long profile of the farm and some of its residents published by the Springfield News on Nov. 11, 1905, also is in the file.

Dorothea Dix's commentary (signed "D. Dix") appeared in March 4, 1847 editions of both the Sangamo Journal and Illinois State Register.

Many other newspaper articles about the farm are available via NewsBank.com and on microfilm.

Dr. George T. Palmer's well-written article, "Why Is the Pauper?" was published in the April 5, 1913, edition of The Surveymagazine. The article is accompanied by eight remarkable drawings of poor farm residents (including the one of the woman above) done by Springfield illustrator Alfred S. Harkness.

The Springfield Survey critiqued the poor farm, in particular its unsuitability as a facility for the mentally ill, in 1914.

SUGGESTIVE FACTS AS TO CAUSES AND PREVENTION OF DESTITUTION REVEALED BY A STUDY OF A MID-WESTERN ALMSHOUSE

In taking the rather exhaustive social histories of the 200 inmates of the Sangamon County Poor Farm, I was assisted by Mary Humphrey and Mary Johnson, without whose intelligent and enthusiastic co-operation this preliminary study could not have been made.

SUPERINTENDENT HEALTH DEPARTMENT, SPRINGFIELD, ILL.

Poorhouse it was, this mid-western abode of unfortunates, regardless of the resolution of the Conference of Charities and Correction recommending that it and its host of fellows be known as "county homes."

This particular poorhouse was comfortably perched upon a hill, surrounded by elms and oaks and walnuts, overlooking a land of plenty—a "prosperous-looking" poorhouse it was with well-bred Holstein cows wading knee-deep in clover on land worth $250 an acre. The verdant pastures, the fields of grain, the white fences, the silo and the barns, the splendid old brick house, might have belonged to a delightful country estate so apparently did they bespeak good farm management. Good order and spick-and-spanness also characterized broad veranda and hall, the living rooms of the superintendent, and almost might the same terms have been applied to the dwelling place of the inmates.

This, seemingly, was no place to come for the ugly story of destitution—for the revolting facts which force us, almost against our wills, to paint our picture in glaring yellow. But the destitution was there. You could see it in the expression, the gait and the posture of the inmates; you could smell it in the unmistakable smell of poverty and you could feel it in the indefinable something which grips you and oppresses you in an institution of this kind.

It was a poorhouse and nothing but a poorhouse—a good poorhouse, if there is such a thing, but a poorhouse none the less. Like thousands of similar institutions, it stood ready to receive the individual when he strikes the very bottom of the toboggan slide of life, to house him and to feed him humanely enough, but with the saving of dimes and nickels regarded as the cardinal virtue of efficient management. It was an "asylum of poverty"—no more what such an institution might be than the lunatic asylum of twenty years ago is like the hospital for the insane of the present day. Like thousands of others, it was one of those places where we receive the unfortunate; where we label him a pauper; where we tolerate his presence until death reduces the county expense or until he goes out into the world again not a whit better off, physically, mentally or morally, on account of his association with us.

We had come to the place for the purpose of ascertaining to what extent tuberculosis prevailed among the two hundred inmates and to ascertain the degree of protection afforded these unfortunates against infection from the disease. As our work progressed this question came to me more and more insistently: "Why are these men and women dependents? What, if anything, could be learned if they were permitted to tell their own stories of misfortune?" Social history blanks were prepared, and two intelligent young women were set at the task of supplementing physical examinations with a series of questions relative to the past lives of the inmates. Due allowance was made for natural exaggeration when a person told of the glories of his past, and like allowance was made for the faulty memory which had lost its record of personal faults, vices and dissipations. As far as possible the reliability of the story was determined by checking up with certain definite and obtainable facts.

At the outset of the work, a wave of fear spread over the place born of the belief that we were cataloging the inmates to send them to an "asylum"; but when this was quieted, the history taking was uneventful.

Eliminating those who were mentally incapable of being interviewed, we were able to prepare 137 quite complete records. Of those interviewed, 32 were women and 105 men. Practically all the women, incidentally, were there on account of insanity, drug addiction or actual illness. There were 131 white inmates, 5 Negroes and one who claimed to be an Indian. Sixty-nine were single, that is 60 per cent of the males and but 27 per cent of the females. Nineteen had living husbands or wives and 47 were widowed. Of those who had married, 42 had married once only; 13 stated that they had married twice and 4 that they had married three times or more.

To the penny-wise county official it is of practical interest to note that 34 of the inmates, or about 25 per cent, had living children and that even casual inquiry showed many instances in which the children were financially able to take care of these unfortunates, as the laws of Illinois provide that they shall do.

Thirty of the inmates were born in Illinois; 36 in the United States outside of Illinois; while Ireland and Germany came next with 21 representatives each. There was no Jew in the almshouse.

Three of the inmates admitted that their parents had been dependent upon public charity; 24 admitted alcoholism or drug addiction on the part of their parents; 4 were the children of the insane and one was the daughter of a criminal. The fathers of 106 came from laboring and agricultural classes, while the fathers of 6 were professional men. Nineteen of the inmates had had no education whatever; 12 claimed to be able to read and write but had never gone to school; 4 had attended school less than one year; 15 had attended less than five years; 71 claimed a complete "common school" education and 7 had gone to high school or college. Four had been compelled to earn a living under ten years of age; 12 from ten to twelve years; 41 from twelve to fifteen years and 31 had begun work between the ages of fifteen and twenty-one years.

With this showing, the question naturally arises: Is there any connection between lack of education, child labor and the poorhouse?

One of the male inmates had been a pharmacist, one a civil engineer; 28 had learned trades and 53 were laborers. Of the females, 17 were house servants and one a teacher.

To ascertain something of the past financial condition, we inquired as to the highest wage each had made, the amount he had inherited and the greatest amount he had ever accumulated. Six had never made more than $10 to $20 per month; 21 had made from $20 to $50 per month and 28 claimed to have made over $100 per month. Fourteen had inherited property worth less than $500; 11 had inherited from $500 to $1,000; 5 from $1,000 to $5,000, and one had inherited from $5,000 to $10,000. Thirty-five of the inmates had never accumulated as much as $500 at any one time; 22 had possessed from $500 to $1,000; 20 had owned from $1,000 to $5,000; 7 from $5,000 to $10,000, and four had had over $10,000.

As to their habits, vices and dependence, 88 were users of alcohol and 35 of these had been heavy drinkers. Four females and one male were addicted to drugs. Thirty-nine had been arrested once, and four more than once. The causes of arrest were drunkenness and disorderly conduct 22; vagrancy 10; theft 1; assault 4 and participation in a strike 1. Two of the inmates had been in other almshouses; 7 had occupied beds in charity hospitals; 2 had grown up from orphan asylums and 4 had been helped by lodges and unions. Many had received county orders before coming to the almshouse.

What light such data as the foregoing, if collected in large numbers of similar institutions, would throw upon the underlying causes of destitution, is, of course, speculative. It seems to me, however, that they might give us a more intelligent idea of the connection between pauperism and the marriage of the unfit; lack of education; child labor; lack of trade or definite vocation; poor mentality; lack of religious influence; divorce or failure to marry; alcohol and drugs; vice and preventable disease.

If these remote influences lie beyond the imaginative possibilities of the average almshouse superintendent and county official, there were certain other facts brought out in this study which should appeal to the most practical and hard-headed. These facts seem to point the way to the rehabilitation of the unfortunate; the way of placing him on his feet again. They also point directly to the reduction in the almshouse population and the consequent decrease in public expense.

Getting at the direct causes of dependence, it was found that old age was the chief factor, 47 of the inmates being over 70 years of age. This number of dependents, incidentally, could be materially reduced by tracing out near relatives legally responsible for their care.

Drugs and alcohol were responsible for 25 dependencies—a less encouraging group until we have intelligent public treatment for these cases. Twenty-five of the inmates were crippled while 18 were there on account of general illness. Doubtless many of these cases would be amenable to treatment if properly studied and diagnosed.

Six were victims of advanced tuberculosis, and it may be assumed that the nature of the illness was unrecognized as the patients were housed in dormitories with the uninfected. There were unquestionably other tuberculosis cases undiagnosed who were not only losing their chance of cure; but were exposing and infecting others. I am impressed, incidentally, that almshouses, with their armies of transients going to the crowded, unventilated quarters of the poor, are very considerable spreaders of tuberculosis.

The insane, feeble-minded and epileptic aggregated perhaps 50—an almshouse population which should be and must be decreased by more adequate state provision for these afflicted.

Syphilis was responsible for 3 dependencies, and probably many more would respond to the Wassermann test and could be restored to health by specific treatment.

The 4 blind and aged inmates might be made to see by simple cataract operations.

Many of the inmates expressed the wish that they might be restored to health that they could go out into the world again upon their own resources. But 58 replied, when asked what they wanted to do in the future, that they wanted to stay where they were, under the friendly roof of the poorhouse.

This does not imply hopeless pauperism, however. Sick, neglected, weak and despondent—of course, they want to stay in some place, even in the poorhouse, where they are not eternally ordered to move on by the police; viewed with suspicion or fear by self-respecting citizens or in constant danger of arrest for vagrancy. Such forlorn men not infrequently commit petty crimes to guarantee their being housed in jail during a cold winter.

I am optimistic enough to believe that if the physical conditions of each inmate were studied; if his ills were cured and he was made stronger in body, he would be given courage, more ambition and more purpose in life. To this extent pauperism is directly curable.

True, there are among the destitute those who are hopelessly marked—branded by heredity; cursed by environment; wrecked by disease; deficient in body and in mind, with little or nothing to work upon. By the same token there are those in other branches of medicine who are hopelessly sick—those who are beyond the reach of the surgeon's knife or the physician's prescription. There are those among the insane who give no ray of hope to the most enthusiastic alienist.

But when we progress to the point of classifying our paupers; of studying intelligently the various causes of destitution; of endeavoring to make our almshouses places of cure rather than mere asylums for the victims of poverty, our percentage of "recoveries" will be surprisingly high.

The difference in methods between the modern insane hospital and the almshouse is striking. A man is admitted to an institution for the insane in a thoroughly irrational and excitable condition. His case is studied and it is found that he has cerebral syphilis. Proper treatment is instituted and, in all probability, the patient is returned to his family cured and a useful member of society.

In another case, syphilis has rendered a man physically inefficient, dissipated and despondent. He drifts to the poorhouse where he is catalogued simply as a "pauper." The chances are that the cause of his pauperism is not detected. If he announces it himself, he may receive the hurried, occasional visit of a contract doctor. Even the drugs that are given him may be crude and impure, bought by contract from the lowest bidder. Little or no provision is made for his intelligent and systematic treatment. He may be drugged with mercury until he is salivated; he may be neglected until his open sores cause him to be housed in the basement away from the other inmates. He is merely a syphilitic pauper and the rough fare of the poorhouse is looked upon as better than he deserves.

As a matter of fact, he is a sick man; sick of a curable disease and his cure may restore him to useful citizenship and remove him from the county expense.

Or again, there comes to the almshouse a man who is tired—a man who will not work. Perhaps he is losing a little weight and he is known to have been drinking more whiskey than he did when he worked harder. You are tempted to compel him to work; to drive him to earn his meager board and bed. The superintendent has no time to note that he has a little fever at night or to see that he clears his throat from time to time. Without physical examination, we have no way of knowing that we are dealing with an incipient consumptive. The average superintendent knows nothing of the deadly weariness of this disease; the weariness that invades every muscle of the body; which makes work impossible; which prompts men of higher moral fiber to drink whiskey or seek other stimulation.

This "lazy devil" is begrudged our poorhouse food, when, as a matter of fact, he ought to have, and at public expense, better food than we have ever thought of giving him. With fresh air, milk, eggs, nourishing food, intelligent treatment and perfect rest, this man can get well and resume a place in the world. With ordinary almshouse care and almshouse fare, we are signing his death warrant while we are guaranteeing his prolonged dependence upon public charity.

We receive old men who have worked hard and who have made an honest living before their eyesight failed and they became almost blind. We label these men as paupers and do not stop to question if a simple operation for cataract would not restore them to useful occupation.

The spirit of the average almshouse is illustrated in this—one Illinois county has a contract with a dentist to pull the teeth of poor farm inmates. There is no provision for saving teeth. If the inmate is writhing with toothache, he must take his choice; lose a good tooth on contract, or grin and bear the pain. The supervisors can see no reason why a pauper should want to save his teeth or why he should be permitted to do so. And yet a cheap filling would cost little more than the primitive and mutilating operation of extraction.

These are mere instances of the obvious curative possibilities in the almshouse—instances where the county's duties are so apparent, in which the right and humane way is so clearly the cheap and economical way that the matter should require no discussion. It is the line of direct cure which the county, as a matter of sound administration, should make it possible to carry out. It means first the careful physical examination of every inmate of every almshouse, not by the medical man who bids lowest to get the contract, but by the most capable diagnostician available.

But this is only the beginning. The big possibility is what the almshouses of the nation can do to ascertain the more remote causes of poverty and destitution, for, as in the case of the insane, when we know the causes of destitution, we can carry out our most effective work before the pauper becomes a pauper—before he comes slinking, wretched and despondent, to the door of the county farm.

Tuberculosis will never be eradicated by merely treating the sick; yellow fever could not have been stamped out by simply caring for the afflicted; pauperism will never be materially affected by what we do when the pauper has reached his last ditch. We must fight tuberculosis by striking at its causes; we have already eliminated yellow fever by the same sane process. We would have gone further in our battle against pauperism, perhaps, were it not that pauperism is the only disease that has never invaded the home of the rich. No multi-millionaire has ever endowed a research laboratory for the study of destitution in memory of a petted child struck dead by its poisonous fangs.

But every almshouse has its clinic in poverty and I am convinced that if every inmate in every poorhouse throughout the nation could be made to tell the story of how he came to be there; if every one could be examined for physical and mental causes, and if all these data could be gathered together in systematic form, a great stride would have been made in formulating an intelligent campaign against dependence.

DEAF-MUTES.

The object of this Supplemental Schedule is to furnish material not only for a complete enumeration of deaf-mutes, but for an account of their condition. It is important that every inquiry respecting each case be answered as fully as possible. Enumerators will, therefore, after making the proper entries upon the Population Schedule (No. 1), transfer the name (with Schedule page and number) of every deaf-mute found, to Schedule No. 1 to this Special Schedule, and proceed to ask the additional questions indicated in the headings of the several columns. Care must be taken not to enumerate persons who are deaf only (hard of hearing) or dumb only (tongue-tied) as deaf-mutes. A deaf-mute is one who cannot speak, because he cannot hear sufficiently well to learn to speak.

Enumerators may obtain valuable hints as to the number of deaf-mutes, and their residence, from physicians who practice medicine in their respective districts, also from school-teachers. Great assistance may be derived from questions addressed to deaf-mutes themselves: Do you know any deaf-mutes in this neighborhood? The class feeling of the deaf and dumb, arising from their isolated state, is so great that they seek each other out for the sake of companionship, and ordinarily know every deaf-mute for miles around.

NOTE A.—A deaf-mute may be found either at his own home or away from it in some educational institution, asylum, or poor-house. In the latter case, his residence when at home must be stated, in order that he may be accredited to the State or county to which he properly belongs, and that the county in which the institution is situated may not be charged with more than its due proportion of deaf-mutes.

NOTE B.—If self-supporting, say "yes;" if partly self-supporting, say "partly;" if not, say "no." Indicate all inmates of institutions who are maintained or treated at their personal expense (not at the expense of any town, county, or State, nor of the institution) by the word "Pay."

NOTE C.—If a deaf-mute from birth, say "B;" if not, state the age at which deafness occurred. Special efforts should be taken to indicate all deaf-mutes from birth.

NOTE D.—The word "semi-mute" has a technical meaning, and denotes a deaf-mute who lost his or her hearing after having acquired at least a partial knowledge of spoken language. Some semi-mutes retain the ability to speak imperfectly, others less it entirely. If a deaf-mute has been taught to speak, he is a semi-mute; (unless he was artificially taught to speak in an institution for deaf-mutes.)

By a semi-deaf person is meant one who cannot hear sufficiently well to comprehend what is said to him, but who hears very loud sounds, such as thunder, &c.

NOTE E.—In making entries in columns 14, 15, and 16, an affirmative mark only will be used, thus: /

BLIND.

The object of this Supplemental Schedule is to furnish material not only for a complete enumeration of the blind, but for an account of their condition. It is important that every inquiry respecting each case be answered as fully as possible. Enumerators will, therefore, after making the proper entries upon the Population Schedule (No. 1), transfer the name (with Schedule page and number) of every blind person found, to Schedule No. 1 to this Special Schedule, and proceed to ask the additional questions indicated in the headings of the several columns.

In this enumeration will be included not only the totally blind, but also the semi-blind. No person will be carried on this Schedule, however, who can see sufficiently well to read. For the distinction between the blind and the semi-blind see Note E; it is of the greatest importance to note this distinction with care, by making the proper entry in columns 10 or 11.

| Number taken from Schedule No. 1. | | NAME. | Residence when at home. (See Note A.) | | Is he (or she) self-supporting or partly so? (See Note B.) | Age at which blindness occurred. (See Note C.) | Form of blindness. (See Note D.) | Supposed cause of blindness, if known. | See Note F. | | Institution life. | | |

In the latter case, his residence when at home must be stated, in order that he may be accredited to the State or county to which he properly belongs, and that the county in which the institution is situated may not be charged with more than its due proportion of the blind.

NOTE B.—If self-supporting, say "yes;" if partly self-supporting, say "partly;" if not, say "no." Indicate all inmates of institutions who are maintained or treated at their personal expense (not at the expense of any town, county, or State, nor of the institution) by the word "Pay."

NOTE C.—If blind from birth, say "B;" if not, state the age at which blindness occurred. Special efforts should be taken to indicate all persons blind from birth.

NOTE D.—Specify whether the blindness is amaurosis, cataract, or other form of blindness.

NOTE E.—The totally blind are unable to distinguish light or shade; the partially blind can distinguish light from darkness, and in some cases can even read or write, but only with great difficulty.

NOTE F.—In making entries in columns 10, 11, 12, and 13, an affirmative mark only will be used, thus: /

Supplemental Schedules, Nos. 1 to 7, for the Defective, Dependent, and Delinquent Classes.

INSANE inhabitants in Mechanicsburg Township, in the County of Sangamon, State of Illinois, enumerated by me June, 1880.

Miles H. Wilhoit, Enumerator.

Marshal's Dist. No. 6
Supervisor's Dist. No. 212

The object of this Supplemental Schedule is to furnish material not only for a complete enumeration of the insane, but for an account of their condition. It is important that every inquiry respecting each case be answered as fully as possible. Enumerators will, therefore, after making the proper entries upon the Population Schedule (No. 1), transfer the name (with Schedule page and number) of every insane person found, from Schedule No. 1 to this Special Schedule, and proceed to ask the additional questions indicated in the headings of the several columns.

Enumerators may obtain valuable hints as to the number of the insane, and their residence, from physicians who practice medicine in their respective districts.

A.—An insane person may be found either at his own home or away from it in some institution, such as a hospital, asylum, or poor-house. In the latter case, his residence when at home must be stated, in order that he may be accredited to the State or county to which he properly belongs, and that the county in which the institution is situated may not be charged with more than its due proportion of insane.

B.—It is not necessary to make minute subdivisions, but to ascertain the number suffering from certain marked forms of insanity—mania, melancholia, paresis (general paralysis), dementia, epilepsy or dipsomania.

C.—An insane person may have more than one attack of insanity: he may recover and afterward become again insane. It is important to know at what age the first attack occurred; how many distinct attacks the patient has had; and the duration of the present attack. If he has had more than one attack, which still continues, insert the figure "1" in column 9. The duration of the present attack may be stated in years or months, thus: "1 yr." or "3 mos."

D.—The object of the inquiries in columns 11 and 12 is to ascertain approximately the proportion of the insane who cannot be trusted with their personal freedom. In column 11, if the patient is usually or often locked in a room or other apartment in the day-time, say "yes;" if not, say "no;" but if locked at night and not by day, say "night." In column 12, if usually or often mechanically restrained, name the mode of restraint, thus: strait-jacket, camisole, cuff, strap, hand-cuffs, ball and chain, crib-bed, &c. If, instead of mechanical restraint, the patient has a constant personal attendant, say "attendant."

E.—In column 13 name all the hospitals or asylums for the insane (not jails or poor-houses) in which the patient has been for a longer or shorter time as inmate, and in column 14 state the entire number of months or years spent in such institutions (whether in one institution or more).

F.—In raising entries in columns 16, 17, and 18, an affirmative mark only will be used, thus: ✓

IDIOTS.

The object of this Supplemental Schedule is to furnish material not only for a complete enumeration of the idiots, but for an account of their condition. It is important that every inquiry respecting each case be answered as fully as possible. Enumerators will, therefore, after making the proper entries upon the Population Schedule (No. 1), transfer the name (with Schedule page and number) of every idiot found, from Schedule No. 1 to this Special Schedule, and proceed to ask the additional questions indicated in the headings of the several columns.

The word "idiot" has a special meaning which it is essential for every enumerator to know. An idiot is a person the development of whose mental faculties was arrested in infancy or childhood before coming to maturity. It is sometimes difficult to distinguish between the stupidity which results from idiocy and that which is due to the loss or deterioration of mental power in consequence of insanity. The latter is not true idiocy, but dementia or imbecility. The enumeration desired for the Census is of true idiots only. Demented persons should be classed with the insane.

Enumerators may obtain valuable hints as to the number of idiots, and their residences, from physicians who practice medicine in their respective districts.

County (if in same State), or State (if in some other State). | Is this person self-supporting, or partly so? (See Note B.) | Age at last birthday. If under 1 year, state months. | Supposed cause of Idiocy (if congenital). (See Note D.) | Idiot of head. (Lunar, casual, or Natural.) | Training School. Has this person ever been an inmate of a training school for Idiots? If yes, name the said training school. | Training School. Enumeration Dist. No. 212

The object of this Supplemental Schedule is to furnish material not only for a complete enumeration of paupers, but for an account of their condition. It is important that every inquiry respecting each case be answered as fully as possible. Enumerators will, therefore, after making the proper entries upon the Population Schedule (No. 1), transfer the name (with schedule page and number) to this Special Schedule and proceed to ask the additional questions indicated in the headings of the several columns. In case any person enumerated on this Special Schedule is blind, deaf and dumb, insane, or idiotic (see columns 26 to 28 inclusive), the particulars of such cases will also be carried on such other Special Schedule, as the case may be.

In addition to the enumeration of paupers required in this Schedule, enumerators will also ask the keeper of every institution designed for the maintenance of the destitute the questions found below, at the bottom of the page, respecting the number of paupers during the year ending May 31, 1880, and record the answers.

SUPPLEMENTAL SCHEDULE No. 7.—PAUPER AND INDIGENT inhabitants (in institutions, poor-houses or asylums, or boarded at public expense in private houses) in Mechanicsburg Township, in the County of Sangamon, State of Illinois, June 1, 1880.

Note A.—Paupers may not be residents of the county or State in which the institution designed for the maintenance of the destitute is situated, and in that case their residence when at home, or the place from whence they came to such institution, should be stated, in order that they may be enumerated in the State or county to which they properly belong, and that the county in which the institution is situated may not be charged with more than its due proportion of paupers.

Note B.—In making entries in columns 6, 7, 8, 9, 15, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, and 28 inclusive, an affirmative mark only will be used, thus: "✓." In columns 10, 11, 12, and 13 inclusive, say "Yes" or "No," as the case may be. Columns 21, 22, 23, and 24 should be filled by inserting the numbers which correctly answer the query: How many sons, daughters, brothers, sisters, respectively, has this person in the institution?—if none, use the zero (0).

ADDITIONAL QUESTIONS to be asked of the chief executive officer of each and all pauper establishments (including homes and asylums for the aged, for the destitute, and for the friendless) in the United States.

Question 1. What is the total number of paupers who have been inmates of this institution at any time for a longer or shorter period, during the year ending May 31, 1880?—Answer. Total 324; native white males, ; native colored males, ; native white females, ; native colored females, ; foreign males, ; foreign females, . (This number is to be found by taking the sum of the number of days' board furnished to each inmate. By days' board is meant the number of days during which each person was entered at or boarded.)

Question 2. What is the total number of days' board furnished to inmates during the year ending May 31, 1880?—Answer. ; and if you have much in the said almshouse?—Answer. ; and if you have much in the said almshouse?—Answer. ; and if you have much in the said almshouse

Enumeration Dist. No. 212

The object of this Supplemental Schedule is to furnish material not only for a complete enumeration of paupers, but for an account of their condition. It is important that every inquiry respecting each case be answered as fully as possible. Enumerators will, therefore, after making the proper entries upon the Population Schedule (No. 1), refer for the name (with schedule page and number) to this Special Schedule and proceed to ask the additional questions indicated in the headings of the several columns. In case any person enumerated on this Special Schedule is blind, deaf and dumb, insane, or idiotic (see columns 26 to 29 inclusive), the particulars of each case will also be carried on such other Special Schedule, as the case may be.

In addition to the enumeration of paupers required in this Schedule, enumerators will also ask the keeper of every institution designed for the maintenance of the dependent the questions found below, at the bottom of the page, respecting the number of paupers during the year ending May 31, 1880, and record the answers.

On April 22, 2025

I visted poor farm

cemetery actually

know as sangamon

county home cemetery

the cemetery was overgrown with a lot of weeds

I cut the grass

around the entrance

with cutters

and cut weeds
so the graves were accessible the graves

I found were
A big square unmarked stone that looked to have something tall
on it at one time.
A unmarked stone that might be the stone that said Donovan at one time but couldn't see it is sank into the ground. I found one stone with a name and that is Savilla

T. Donovan. There were mutipule
3"x3" concrete stone some that I could read go
as listed 127, 120,

109, 128, 12?, ?2?

I Also went to poor farm it's self the was not much left there was foundation from the last building that was standing there with fragments of brick from it

There Also looked to be A piller in
A big pile of bracnhes that was thrown in there this might be from the poor farm house
Also known as the Almhouse

My visit to Sangamon county home cemetery on 4/22/2025

This document was typed the day after the visit on 4/23/2025

The numbers I found on 3"x3" concrete markers were 109, 120, 123, 127, and 128 are ones that I can read the numbers fully on. There are also some that I can't read the numbers fully on and they go as followed 12? And ?2?. There is what looks to be multiple markers thrown in a pile in the cemetery that look like to ones with numbers. There are also a square large stone looks to be made from Salisbury pink there is a cross made of plastic that is broken that is close to the stone of Savilla T. Donovan.

UNKNOWN CEMETERY (extinct)

Lanesville township - section 31 - southern edge of SW quarter of the section. Nothing now remains. The plat map of 1874 shows the cemetery on the property of C. Black. Nothing remains of the cemetery and no records are known to exist.

Taken verbatim from Dr. Floyd Barringer's, Sangamon County Cemeteries (1971).

SANGAMON COUNTY POOR FARM (extinct)

Lanesville township - section 7 - southern edge of the center of the section. The plat map of 1874 shows the cemetery on the edge of the property of the Sangamon County Poor Farm. Nothing remains of the cemetery.

LIST OF DEATHS From the Records of Sangamon County Alms House, Buffalo, IL
Inmate Record: Sangamon County Poor Farm
April 1875-August 1888; September 1888-November 1897; December 1897-August 1905

The following names and dates were extracted from the original books of the Sangamon County Alms House, Buffalo, IL. Several of the books were donated to Lincoln Library's Sangamon Valley Collection. The Sangamon County Genealogical Society published three volumes of these records in 1994. The records cover the periods from April 1875 through August 1905, with about 440 deaths listed.

Please be aware that this listing is incomplete since not all record books for the poor farm were donated to Lincoln Library. Please also be aware that not all persons who died at the poor farm were interred on the property. Information in brackets was extracted from the Sangamon County, Illinois Physician's Certificate of Death Records.
